Ian Munro: A Winner No Matter the Tally

by Janice Savage

Editor-in-Chief

Another election has come and gone. We sit amongst the leftovers; the plastic posters reinforced with packing tape cling to the walls. The debris of fliers declaring the environmentally friendly policies of the party line litter the residence hallways. We have the champion, congratulations to Liberal Ray Bonin. But the real winner is Ian Munro, Progressive Conservative candidate for the riding of Nickel Belt.

For those of you who have been asleep, studying, trapped underneath something heavy, or contemplating the finer points of Y & R, Ian Munro is a student at Laurentian University. At the age of 23 this is his first federal election. He has had some defeats and some victories, some learning experiences and some disheartening realities. But his message is strong and consistent and it has been nationally recognized.

Canadian youth are apathetic in terms of their political orientation. The government has to be responsible to all generations of Canadians. They must provide the citizenry with hope.

They must take responsibility for the disenchantment that has proceeded this year's election. They must bring the government back to the people and make the new generation interested, active and hopeful in the political system they must trust with the most beautiful common denominator among all of us. Canada.

I thank and commend Ian on making the hope of our generation an issue in this federal election. It takes more than knowledge of the party line to run for office. In Ian's case, it takes courage to stand up under the pressure of facing a long standing incumbent as a rival. It takes grace to accept that you do not have the experience of the people sharing the ballot with you. It takes knowledge and guts to stand up under scrutiny because of the decisions made by a government that came into power when he was 14.

Mr. Munro has a long prosperous political career ahead of him. I congratulate him on an amazing beginning and I hope to see him find a spectacular ending, many years from now.

SGA EXEC TO BLAME

For the amount of money we students dish out for SGA services (I use the term loosely), we should expect more from them if they want us to participate. The problem is inefficient SGA members, or should I say "un"creative! Why don't they get off their "collective asses" and do something about it instead of blaming us!

One last thing, for those of you who are SGA members and receive health and drug benefits: how many times did you have to go to SGA to find out when they were in? So much for being covered from Sept. to August. You don't even get it until mid October, and by then some of us have to dish out the full price for prescriptions since our coverage expired in August. Tough cookies to the SGA if they don't like what I have to say.

Ginette Brosseau

RESIGNATIONS DEMANDED

Since, as you pointed out, I provide you with your job and pay your wages, I would like to hereby ask you to resign.

You say that you spoke with the student body to find out what we wanted changed by the protest. I find this very hard to believe as neither I, nor anyone I know, was contacted by you. You didn't even care enough to send me a questionnaire. Yet you came to the conclusion that the library and parking were at the top of our lists.

Why aren't you conveying our concerns to the higher ups as we unfortunately hired you to do? Is it because you're too busy writing rude and arrogant letters to your own student body? Perhaps you're far too busy accusing others of incompetence. I know you weren't overly occupied posting signs for a protest; in a 24 hour period before student's day, I was at the school during 16 hours and I only saw one undated 8 1/2 x 11 piece of paper stating unclearly that there was a sit-in concerning affordable housing. Please review for me, what did you say our prime concerns were?

Finally, it is true that we can make our time here more enjoyable if we want to. It is also true, however, that we vote you all in to make it even better, as is obvious by the standstill which our 'wonderful' university has reached, you people are not doing your job. It is shameful to have you representing us. Therefore, YOU'RE FIRED.

Noreen Pearson

LAMBDA TO BLAME

I must express to you the profound sense of irony I felt reading your editorial 'National Student's Day: Don't Blame the Students, SGA'. Here's the editor of the student newspaper giving a scathing lecture on how poorly the SGA communicates with the student body. 'NO ONE KNEW IT WAS NATIONAL STUDENT'S DAY' you declare. Does this 'no one' include you Miss Savage.

Had the article been written by anyone else I would most likely not be writing this now, but for you to tell me that you hadn't any idea of the significance of last Wednesday seems almost criminal. You further compound your ignorance by attacking Miss Bishop, the one person who seems to be at all concerned about the complacency of the average L.U. Student.

I have not had the chance to look at the Lambda constitution, but I am sure one of the responsibilities of the paper is to inform the student body of upcoming events and activities. That places the onus on you, Miss Savage, and your associates, to know about National Student's Day and tell me, not the other way around!

The situation is not helped by you telling our student leaders to 'Get a Life'. Perhaps if you would spend more time getting informed, the majority of us would finally feel the drive to get involved. It may be true that '4000 students can't all be wrong' but they can easily be left in the dark by an inefficient student newspaper.

NO BOYS ALLOWED!

In response to the recent article regarding the Take back the Night March, as a part of the organizing committee, we would like to explain why participation in the actual March is limited to women and children.

Men have been asked to not march in order for women to experience solidarity with each other and to confront the fear and anxiety they experience when they walk alone at night.

What were the men in your story doing out there anyway? Where were they going at that time of night? Shouldn't they have known better? What were they wearing? What did they do to provoke the attacks on them? These typically are the questions that are asked of women who are physically or sexually attacked on the streets at night. But these same questions are seldom asked or thought of when we hear that a man has been attacked. Violence against women is more pervasive than it is against men.

Asking men not to march with us one night a year is not intended to exclude them from their responsibility in ending violence in our society nor is it intended to suggest that men and women should not work together. The March is intended to give women an opportunity to confront and express their personal fears and anger at a society where one in two women is a survivor of unwanted sexual activity.

The Women of the Sudbury
Sexual Assault Crisis Centre

Men who choose to march alongside women in a protest against violence should be embraced, not shot down for their efforts.

KUDOS TO REGISTRAR

I would like to express my appreciation to the Registrars Office for putting out the exam schedule earlier than in past years. As an out-of-province student this means I can save a few hundred dollars on an earlier booking of airfare plus the stress and hassle from waiting until the last minute.

MIND YOUR OWN BUSINESS

On the weekend of October 16, someone who shall remain anonymous, was evicted from Huntington residence for smoking marijuana in their room. How was the person caught? Someone smelled the smoke from the hallway and reported it. If people who smoke do so in private, then those who do not, should respect the choices of those people and leave them alone. Pot smokers do not force others to smoke marijuana, so other people should not force them to stop. If you don't agree, can you remember a time before you believed everything you read or saw? Here's to those who are mature enough to make their own choices and do not need to have their beliefs spoon-fed to them.

Lambda circulates 3,600 copies throughout the city of Sudbury and the Laurentian University Campus. We thank the following for permitting us to circulate our paper at their establishments: Vesta Pasta Cafe, Backstreet Nightclub, The Black Cat, The Towne House, The Editor's Bookshop, Mutt & Jeff's Used Book Shop, the Outside Store, The Grand Theater, The Sudbury Film Society, Pak Mail, Sudbury Secondary School, Lo-Ellen Park Secondary School, Lasalle Secondary and Lockerby Composite School.

A New Service for Students

For over a month now, a bespectacled little man has been snooping around campus, meeting people and asking a lot of questions. Who is this guy and what's he up to? Here's the scoop.

Since early September, Laurentian University has joined the ranks of the 24 or so Canadian post-secondary institutions who have an Ombudsman or OMBUDSPERSON.

Is there some connection between this and the nosy little man? And what the heck is an Ombudsperson anyway?

Ombudsman is a word derived from the Swedish Riksdagens Justitieombudsman which means (more or less) "people's representative" or "agent for justice". Generally speaking, an Ombudsperson is an independent official whose job it is to receive complaints about bureaucracy, look into the facts and report on the findings, all with a view to reaching an acceptable settlement. This concept which originated in early 19th century Sweden has been adopted by over a hundred countries and governmental bodies across the globe. A host of other non-governmental organizations like banks, hospitals, broadcasting companies, newspapers - and yes, even universities - have borrowed the ombudsman model as a feedback mechanism to help them deal more effectively with complaints and improve service.

Although the objectives are very similar, the mandates of college and university ombudspersons vary from one institution to another. For example, quite a few offices can investigate complaints from not only students but also from staff and faculty members.

Here at Laurentian, the new service is the result of a partnership between the AEF, SGA and the University. The agreement calls for funding from all three parties (which safeguards the Ombudsperson's independence) and spells out the terms of reference for the position.

The Office of the Ombudsperson ("Bureau du protecteur universitaire") has been given the responsibility to receive complaints from students about academic and non-academic decisions, actions or policies. Depending on the issue, the Ombudsperson can provide information about the appeal procedures already in place, make informal inquiries or conduct more formal investigations when required. Based on an objective assessment of the facts in each case, recommendations can be made to resolve the issue.

It's important to note that ombudsmanship rests on impartiality, which means that an Ombudsperson is neither a defender of the University administration nor automatically an advocate for students.

The considerable powers of investigation and recommendation are a last resort and not meant to replace existing appeal procedures. What this all means is that your Ombudsperson can't swoop down like some kind of comic book superhero and force organizations to change their decisions or policies. Ombudsmanship relies on an organization's openness to constructive criticism and its genuine commitment to improving administrative decision-making. This kind of problem-solving can only work in a climate of credibility and mutual respect.

Of course the best way to avoid hassles is to know the rules and act accordingly. Read your University Calendar, program information, course outlines, the Code of Student Conduct and any other regulations or policies which could affect you. If you disagree with a policy or decision, or feel you have not been treated fairly, there are ways to have your concerns addressed. Rational discussion, well-reasoned written requests and explanatory letters will often lead to a resolution without having to resort to formal appeals. The "Screaming Banshee" approach to dispute resolution is rarely successful. It's important to know your rights, to keep cool, to be persistent. But it's also possible to disagree and still treat other people as you would want to be treated.

So who is Laurentian's Ombudsperson? He's Claude Roy, former Sudbury District Officer for Ombudsman Ontario, one time M.P.'s Constituency Assistant and recent graduate from L.U.'s Ecole des sciences de l'éducation (teacher's college).

Since last month, Claude has been busily meeting with University officials, amassing information on policies and procedures, getting an office set up and receiving complaints.

Got a problem with the University? Not sure what to do (or what to do next)? Talk it over with Claude. Your concerns will be treated confidentially and he may be able to help.

You can reach Claude at Extension 1083 or drop by room 924 of the Parker Building. The office is open from 9:00 a.m. to noon and from 1:00 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.

MESSAGE: "Drink Responsibly"

by Andy McKillican
News Editor

That is the message the Laurentian Alcohol Awareness Week Committee was trying to get out to students. The week, which took place October 18th to 22nd, involved numerous activities designed to show students that drinking responsibly has its advantages and there are alternative activities to week-end drunks.

Penny Leblond, a member of the Committee, suggested that the week's activities illustrated that it is possible to have fun without using alcohol. The Alcohol Awareness Taste Test showed, "If they're drinking for the taste rather than drinking for the alcohol." She stated that the purpose of the week was also to raise awareness, "It lets students know there is an organization on campus to serve their needs," in the case of problems with alcohol abuse.

Leblond described the message of the Committee as one of asking students to use alcohol in moderation rather than not using alcohol at all. The message is "Have fun, but don't hurt anybody while you're at it."

Luc Lalonde, another committee member and President of the AEF, said that a lot of interesting events were held that generally went over well. "The Spaghetti Supper went over really, really well." Throughout the week, draws were held, questionnaires were filled out and the message of the Committee was spread. Lalonde said, "We're here to promote responsible drinking. There are other things to do than go out and get shit-faced." Activities like the mock tail contest, the Star Trek and Bart Simpson movie festivals showed that.

Lalonde said that the week drew a "...thumbs up from the national office." He also said that they were studying some of the activities. He mentioned that other activities will be held throughout the school year, like sending their mascot to some VZES games to keep up awareness.

Laurentian is touted to be among the worst school for alcohol consumption. "L.U. is second under Carleton to be the worst drinking school in Canada."

Penny Leblond stated that the committee is already making plans for next year's Alcohol Awareness Week. Leblond says that she is pleased with the Committee's efforts. "Schools with committees that have triple our funding, aren't even as active as we are."

Anger and Outrage: The Tuition Fee Reform

by Lori Lentini
Contributor

It was mid-August when I heard the news on the radio. The Council of Ontario Universities had proposed a plan to increase the cost of tuition by fifty percent over the next five years. My response, like most students, was less than serene.

Before I flew off the handle, I tried to rationalize the reasons behind the proposal. It seemed so unfair, given the state of the current economy. The recession has hit Canada hard and the lack of jobs available for students has caused a mad rush to post secondary institutions. What is unfortunate is the lack of resources that we students have available financially to pay for our education. It is tough enough to get by, with University fees as high as they are. Why would anyone want to make it more difficult?

The formal proposal by the Council intends to raise fees by thirty percent, allowing two equal installments. Students in Law, Social Work and Medicine, be prepared. The tuition fees for Professionals Schools will be double the rate of that charged to Arts and Science students. Painful, isn't it? However, like any other proposal bound for resistance or controversy, it is sugar coated. The Council plans to use this extra revenue to increase student assistance programs, and to give each University the option of an assistance allowance to administer to the local student aid as a sort of outreach program for disadvantaged students. It will create a better repayment plan for student loans, made more available through this reform.

What is better yet, all of this would be achieved without any further burden to the Government of Ontario.

I must apologize if my tone is somewhat sarcastic, but the terms of the reform are infuriating. First of all, it is common knowledge that on an international level, Canada comes in well.

LOCS/ECHL - What Is It?

By Barbara Harvey
Contributor

Starting university is hard enough, but what happens when you live off-campus? LOCS/ECHL, Laurentian off-campus students/ Etudiant(e)s hors campus de la Laurentienne, is a club which is in its fourth year of operation. Starting out, the organization was known as LOCS and became LOCS/ECHL, to accommodate and appreciate the bilingualism of its members. The club started out small but now has over six hundred members.

In the beginning LOCS/ECHL was for the off-campus students; this year we are trying very hard to integrate the off-campus students with those on campus. Therefore unlike past years, on campus students can learn how to party the LOCS/ECHL way, by simply coming out and signing up.

LOCS/ECHL is not a club just to be "a club". Each year we work very hard to bring our members together and have a good time. This year, for example, we have an event scheduled for each month, including dances, beverage and pizza, sleigh ride, and a formal to round out the year. For the sports fanatic we are organizing various intramural sports for anyone to join.

Now you know what LOCS/ECHL is all about-

Come out and party the off-campus way.

Campus Ministry: What Are We All About?

by Gerry Patterson
Contributor

We are a group of students, and professors, who share a common vision and purpose. We welcome anybody of any religious denomination who shares in our vision. Our vision, or goal is to create a club composed of people who want to share their faith with others. A club of people who are willing to talk and listen to others about their common religious beliefs. The spiritual journey is not always an easy one, but it is often easier if you can share your faith with others.

Campus Ministry has one basic objective:

- promoting awareness, visibility and accessibility of spiritual life on campus by helping students become aware of their own beliefs and to share with others by participating in the many activities taking place on campus. The four colleges - Thornloe (Anglican), Huntington (United), Sudbury (Catholic), and University College (people of Goodwill) - offer services and support from the best professors and advisors.

Campus Ministry at Laurentian hopes to promote the attitude that it is OK to share beliefs and to express spirituality publicly without fear of being laughed at. We need volunteers with open nonjudgemental minds to welcome and listen to those who wish to shape their spiritual life.

Campus Ministry is located in the club's room, and we are always open for members and suggestions. We are an organized group that coordinates and supports spiritual life on campus. So check us out! A list of our activities and gatherings is posted at several locations throughout Campus, as well as being posted at our desk in the clubs room.

To conclude, Campus Ministry is a club open to those who are interested in learning about other faiths, and who wish to share their own knowledge and experiences with others. In the bringing together of many different perspectives of religious belief, we should hope to become more aware of different spiritual needs and grow with this new found awareness.

Metamorphoses

by Melanie Marttila
Contributor

So, what are you going to do after you graduate? Despite the seductive sound of the last word (mmm...graduate...) this phrase strikes fear into the hearts of more students than the thought of exams. It's a frightening world out there, and before you find yourself in the middle of it, I'd like to disillusion you. If you want to get a job, well, to be honest, a Bachelor (in whatever) won't get you far on its own, it is, in any case, a good start, however. It's who you know, or so the saying goes, and to a large extent it's true. If you know the right people in the right organizations, there's a chance you might get a good job with your Bachelor; at the very least you can get yourself an awesome summer job. If you want a job that will last you more than four months, you have to continue your education. Either go to college - you'll find it a big change from university - or go to graduate or professional school.

College is fairly cool. Depending on the relation between the institution you are in now and the one you want to get into, you could be excused from half of your classes. Because the main requirement for instructors is four to six years experience in their field, and the fact that many colleges are heavily funded by industry, the work you do is of a more applied nature than that of universities (unless you are in a professional program). The word is that college is better for getting jobs. Why then do most of the advertised careers in the Globe and Mail (and all those other big papers) require university degrees? In all other aspects, though, college life will be much the same as university. You know what I mean, the Pubs, the friends, the parties, etc...

Post graduate education is different. First, you have to have performed well enough in your undergraduate studies to meet the requirements of the institution you are applying to. Whether it be teachers' college, medical school, law school, or a Masters' unless you have an 'A' average, your chances of acceptance are rather low. (For a more in-depth examination of the graduate school scene, please look at my friend Paul Bellmore's monthly feature in Northern Life.)

The next question is, of course, what happens when you do complete all this schooling? It all costs, and the costs are rising all the time. My savings were tapped out before my third year was complete. I'm running on OSAP now and if I want to go to graduate school or college, I will have a debt large enough to choke not one, but a whole herd of horses when I'm through.

Apparently, Canada Student Loans have been reorganized. While there are no more grants, loans are forgivable, but only if you receive over a certain amount in a given year. I have what I consider to be a huge debt right now, but I've never managed to get more than that "particular amount" in any single year... (It's a conspiracy, I tell you!) You can, however, get extended periods of "interest relief" if you do not have an income sufficient to meet your loan payments at the end of those deadly six months after graduating. Looking at the present economic climate, that could mean a hell of a lot of paperwork, but hey, I won't have to pay money I don't have.

So, what happens when you decide to let reality slap you around for a while; you have all the schooling you can take, or you're dragged off the gravy-train of education kicking and screaming, what then? The situation is not as hopeless as it seems. Sure, there don't seem to be any jobs out there in your field of expertise, but that doesn't mean you'll never get one. There is a term flying around: Dram Deferment. It means you get whatever job you can, but you keep looking for what you want. You could always start your own business; it is said that small business is the key to economic recovery, but you have to be meticulous. Research your market thoroughly and get all the facts. Knowing your rights and the law can help you cut through so much red tape... There is also the die-hard optimist's way about it, and in spite of all the skeptics out there who try to tell us otherwise, it actually meets with a good deal of success, if you have the constitution for it. It may mean any of the above action, but with a vital difference. It concerns some creative envisioning. You have to see yourself as a pit bull, and your dream is the bone. You may have to overcome foes and obstacles along the way, but that bone never quite leaves your field of view. You are starving, a ravenous beast, and when you finally get a hold on that bone, you're not letting go until it's part of you. There are other, more pleasant ways of envisioning your success, magnets, star-crossed lovers, Arthurian quest, but whatever your style, if you meditate on your dreams every day and put every effort to the achievement of that dream, you'll get it. It won't happen quickly, or without hardship, but when your life has some kind of purpose, it's amazing what you will find yourself doing.

There's a string attached though, there's never just one bone, and the hunger never goes away; not until you find the cause that drives your dreams before you like a heard of wildebeests before the lioness. That bone is one you'll gnaw on the rest of your life, taking time out, now and again, to digest a dream or two on the way. This is the romantic, and some would say naive, path to fulfillment. Unfortunately for the critics, the people who chose this path know a lot more about life and the consequences of their actions than many others ever will. These visionaries have to brave disappointment and depression, and still be stronger than the mountains, resisting the wear of the waters of popular opinion that swirl around them daily. These people are often lonely, not for lack of friends, but for lack of others who share their dreams, although their friends and family support them (there is a key difference between sharing and supporting).

A great number of the students who graduate from this institution, whether they go on to professional school or whatever, will find their way to their dreams. The fact that you're here indicates your dedication to something more important than a job. Sweet dreams, my friends, sweet dreams, and remember me fondly when you start to make your dreams come true.

P.S. Come out to the English Literature Society's meeting of the Inner Circle Writer's group, Friday, October 22, 2pm in the TV lounge (SCE 307). God! Isn't this anticlimactic? Author grins in a Cheshire manner here...

FOOD SERVICES COMMITTEE

Sour-Creamed Pork Chops

Here's a variation from fried pork chops with applesauce.

Preparation time: 10 minutes
Cooking time: 40 to 45 minutes
Serves two

Preheat oven to 375°F (190°C).

Combine on a plate:
1/2 cup (125 mL) all-purpose flour
1 tsp. (5 mL) salt
1/2 tsp. (1 mL) pepper

Roll:
4 medium-sized pork chops
in flour mixture and place in casserole dish.

Melt in a frying pan over medium heat:
2 tbsp. (30 mL) butter or margarine
Add meat and brown. Place pork chops in a casserole dish.

Place:
1 clove
in each pork chop.

Combine in a small bowl:
1 container, 8 oz. (250 mL) sour cream
1/2 cup (125 mL) white cooking wine or
1/2 cup (125 mL) white vinegar
Pour over pork chops.

Cover and bake for 40 to 45 minutes.

Don't Start Without:
plate
measuring cup
measuring spoons
casserole dish with lid small bowl
large spoon
large fork
frying pan

Helpful Hints:
• You might want to taste occasionally, or to turn chops once during cooking, although it isn't essential.

• When you take chops out, either remove cloves or warn your guests.

Serving Ideas:
• This dish does not reheat well, so invite company or cut the recipe in half.
• Because the sauce is so good, serve it on rice (see Spanish Rice, Chapter 4) with a green vegetable or salad for color.

Vs. - Pearl Jam

By Shawn Rocca

Pearl Jam's debut album, "Ten", not only sold millions of copies worldwide, it also established the Seattle rockers as a preeminent force in the grunge business. With the release of "Vs.", their second daring effort, Pearl Jam has soared to new heights of brilliance. From start to finish the disc is armed with a guitar attack so furious and fresh that it will leave you reeling. Mike McCreedy's exploits on lead guitar have long been cause for celebration and there are plenty more of those famous bursts here. Whether it be the kick-ass rockers, "Go" and "Animal", or the slick, acoustic, "Daughter", the power here is delicious. Lead singer Eddie Vedder's prolific vocals on tracks like "Dissident" and "Glorified G"; a song in which its lyrics were born basically from a conversation Vedder overheard, is just another instance of the album's energy. Pearl Jam is has not only recorded an album of solid grunge but also an album of clear cut lasting power. This one will remain for some time before following into the classic ranking, "Vs." is hammered home with such strength of purpose and style, it will be virtually impossible to ignore. The album is destined to ignite parties for the next year or so with a relentless surge of authority. "Vs." is by far one of the most important and strongest releases of the year.

August and Everything After Counting Crows

by Shawn Rocca
staff writer

Gathering together a formula of musical influences, San Francisco's Counting Crows style ranges from the ardent guitar tales of Johnny Van Zandt to more stringent vocals reminiscent of the Tragically Hip's, Gordon Downie. However, the majority of implications taken from such a musical formula fall short of expectations. Although the style is fresh, the sound is all too familiar and tiresome from track to track. The majority of the songs are mid-tempo, acoustic tracks with little, if any, real driving force. Some of the strongest moments here, may be songs like "Mr. Jones"; a song about going after your dreams and "Murder of One"; a sad tale about a man struggling through a meaningless life. And because these signature moments are few to mention, nonetheless, is the writing on this album. All songs written by vocalist Adam Duritz reflect a great talent to easily mold the language to meet his purpose. If these songs were published as works of literature, the experience would probably be much more productive.

Barney's Favorites Vol 1.

Would somebody nuke that purple eyesore already! The Barney craze has certainly gotten out of hand. The latest is a volume of Barney's favorite songs, all sung in that fingernail-scratching-down-a-chalkboard voice. His most well known tune is the ever-hated "I Love You, You Love Me"! Well here is just another example of a perfectly good childrens book being made into a real shit of a creation! However, the kids seem to be liking it right? But then again, aren't these the same kids who are watching Beevus and Butthead? Come on kids, it's time to make a choice. What's it going to be? Trash or vulgar trash? I say we go back to the days of Sharon, Louis and Bram! Now there was quality entertainment!

DID YOU KNOW THAT...

Older men need more arousal in order to obtain erections. A person who got hard every time they handed out a stiff sentence on LA LAW may later be a senior citizen requiring several minutes and intensive physical cajolery. One survey found that men aged 48 to 65 took five times as long to get it up as men under 30. This is because the penis ages and the blood vessels harden. The balls shrink and lose firmness.

When a woman orgasms, her uterus, vaginal canal, and anus contract rhythmically.

The basic structure of a woman's clitoris consists of a head (near the tip of the hood) a shaft and a hood covering the whole complex. (Sound familiar)

The average sperm is 1/500 of an inch long. If they were placed end to end you could fit 1 800 000 of them in the length of the proverbial football field.

There have been so many suicides by jumpers off the Golden Gate Bridge in San Francisco, that officials are planning to install a series of special telephones so that councillors can talk them out of it. Since its completion in 1937, there have been 987 suicides off the bridge.

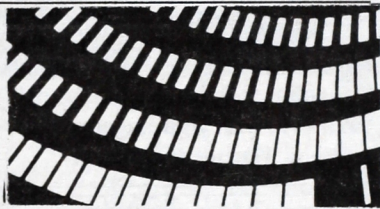

The first thing that a person recognizes about you is the shape your forehead. The eyes naturally focus on the forehead of a person. This is why when a person gets a new haircut, or wears a hat is sometimes unrecognizable.

Ancient Romans and Jews used to swear oaths by placing their hand on each other's testicles. It's no coincidence that the word "testicle" is a diminutive form of testis - Old Latin for "witness." Latinos obviously figured that the little fellas were evidence of - or witness to - a guy's virility. Think about that if you're called for jury duty!

- p.s Dear Heidi, thanks for the contributions, and you'll be pleasantly surprised in the upcoming issues. Did you Know That... is here to stay!

ENTERTAINMENT PROFILE

The Canadian Brass

Since their first appearance on the musical scene in 1970, the Canadian Brass have revolutionized brass music and established the brass quintet as a vital force in the musical world today. Over the years, these classically trained virtuoso musicians have transformed a previously neglected group of instruments with a limited repertoire into an exciting and versatile ensemble which performs everything from Bach and Mozart to Gershwin and Dixie land. With their unbeatable blend of virtuosity, spontaneity and humour, the Canadian Brass play to sold-out houses all over the world, and have become recording favourites as well. They have appeared on many popular television programs nationwide, and were the first brass ensemble ever to play Carnegie Hall. The Canadian Brass have paved the way for many other brass groups, but clearly, they remain in a class by themselves.

Internationally acclaimed for their "brilliant virtuosity and ensemble playing of remarkable unanimity" (New York Times), the Canadian Brass also add appropriate commentary and tasteful touches of humour to their concerts. They will follow a "straight" Bach selection, for example, with a Tribute to the Ballet, in which the group visually "interprets" the dance.

The Canadian Brass, comprised of Fred Mills (Trumpet), Ronald Romm (Trumpet), David Ohanian (French Horn), Eugene Watts (Trombone), and Charles Daellenbach (Tuba), perform on 24-karat gold-plated Yamaha instruments, and have been seen on TV shows such as the "Tonight Show", the "Today Show" and even "Sesame Street". With more than 20 albums to their credit, the ensemble's discography reflects their wide range of musical mastery. They were the first chamber ensemble ever to tour the People's Republic of China (1977), and perform more than 200 concerts a year.

Having forged a new road for generations of brass players to come, the Canadian Brass can look back on their long history as a prelude to even greater levels of achievement in the future.

The Beverly Hillbillies

Director Penelop Spheeris has turned what was an o.k. television series into what has become a movie flop! When the Clampetts strike oil in the swamp behind their Ozark mountain shack, their new fortune inspires them to relocate to the stuffy city of Beverly Hills, where cultures collide.

If you like movies that are "so stupid that you can't help but laugh", then you'd probably like to pay the admission and risk it. However, more seasoned movie-goers might prefer cinema 2. Trust me folks, this one should be saved for a boring Sunday afternoon at home. Definitely a rental!

From Bad to Worse Culkin's New Image

McCauley Culkin, of bratty Home Alone, and sequel Home Alone 2, "Lost in New York", has turned over a new leaf in his acting career. His latest film, The Good Son, stuns audiences with his portrayal of the child from hell. However it seems to me that the only difference between this film and his past films are that the violence actually results in death. Then again, the Home Alone Bandits should have been dead long ago with the beatings they've taken (Hospitals estimate that the hospital bill would surpass 2 million dollars)

Culkin plays a shit-disturber son of a well-to-do New England couple. The vicious plot thickens as Culkin's character becomes more and more jealous of his cousin who is staying with them. To put it bluntly, this kid has absolutely no qualms about murder and torture. He is in fact what the Prisoner of Reality might call "...son".

Let's just say that it is a fair movie (but don't expect it to be on the list for nominees in the best film/actor/director etc Oscar. However, I can promise you that you will come out of the movie with your finger nails a little shorter, and a slightly increased heart rate. The movie is playing at the Odeon Theatre downtown.

NO KIDDING? YOU'RE A VIRGIN!

by Zodiac

People often get things confused, like astronomy and astrology or Virgo and virgin. Well, if you don't know the difference, get a DICTIONARY! You see, I only tell you this because I care about your mind, really! Anyway, the sign of Virgo runs from August 23 to September 22. I know were in October, but I want to incorporate every sign of the zodiac within the Lambda year, as well as other interesting information relating to astrology. I shall proceed to the task at hand; educating you on Virgo.

Virgoans are a teacher's dreams; organized, practical, analytical, meticulous, and not afraid of hard work...if only they could get up on time for classes. Virgoans are very observant and possess a critical mind (is that the proper text book for this class, sir?). These perfectionists can be quite annoying (remind you of anyone's mother?) since they're hyper-critical, even tactless and mean: their way is the only right way. but let us not deny that they are over-critical of themselves first and foremost.

Love is in the air...but Virgoans have their feet planted on the ground. They are apprehensive in love and tend to analyze it like everything else (especially love-making). They are attracted to dark, mysterious, emotional people who can really FUBAR (watch Tango & Cash) their life. They also like to fantasize (no dah!) since they have a highly developed mind (and sex-drive). They are logical in their sex life and tend to be cool and emotionless (Data-type, maybe!); involvement is beneath them (ya, right...). On the other hand, they are never secretive or under-handed but open and honest (although you have to basically bet it out of them).

This sign is ruled by "speedy" Mercury. In Greek mythology, Hermes is the messenger of the gods associated with this planet; he symbolizes intellect and speech. Therefore, STUDENTS fall under his jurisdiction. Key words describing Virgoans are work, purity, analysis, and cynicism. Also, they are considered earthy signs; it brings out the ambition for material gain, as well as elegance and luxury. They are often miserly with money (Scrooge ring a bell?). Then again, Virgoans are trust-worthy and patient. Well-informed in their field (Dr. Ruth?) they have a keen interest in arts and literature and possess a sharp sense of curiosity for life. at their worst, they are a tower of Babel; at their best, they are the Borg with a sense of humor. They can be very persistent and force their opinions and ideas on others.

Agatha Christie, Sean Connery, Peter Flak, Goethe, Arnold Palmer, Queen Elizabeth I, and Michael Jackson encompass the Virgo quite accurately.

Hell Hath no Fury

You say you want to leave me
To find yourself, to grow,
Find freedom, with my blessing
I'll be sorry when you go.

I'll be sorry when a drive-by shooting
Gets you by mistake
So sorry when cement boots
Weigh too heavy in the lake.

It's a shame your broken body will be found beneath a truck.
Oh, you lost a hand in Turkey?
Well, of all the rotten luck.

With genuine regret I'll see your Anguish as you bleed
I'd hate to be your eyeballs when those maggots start to feed

I really hope your car does not explode in burning flame Struck by lightning? Break both legs?
Oh, that would be a shame.

Yes, soon you'll see what life can bring,
Outside my warm embrace
It can bring a battered body
it can bring a mangled face.

Have a nice Life!

THE PIT #15

The Laughing Stock of the Off-Campus Drivers

The nightmare has already begun, as you have obviously made it through the vein drawing experience of Paris Street. Now it must continue as you must know brave...the pit zone.

Everyone on and off campus knows of the pit. That barren, built-on-a-swamp, dust-collector that the Campus Administrators like to call Lot #15. It sounds so chic! After all, they couldn't let the students know what it really is. Am I bitter? YES!

You start your experience of "the Pit" with your parking control card. You know, that $66 piece of plastic that if you lose your fucked credit card-like thing. You've waited for your turn to brave the rising bar, you roll down your window, you stick your card in the slot, and...NOTHING!

Your heart jumps, your head feels light...Oh my God, please work, please work. You try again. AHH! Still nothing. You look in your rear view mirror to see the pile up of cars, and the angry and impatient sneers that smear the drivers faces. One last try...and the bar raises.

Who is this cruel spirit that invokes this torture on poor students. I have resigned myself to the possibility that Norm, the evil security guard is hiding behind the bushes with his remote bar raiser, and having a wicked chuckle while doing so.

Okay, so now you're in the pit, and now you just have to park your car. YA RIGHT! For your convenience, the security department has erected barriers that, granted have made it a little more orderly, but now, the security guards themselves are there directing traffic. Am I the only one, or does anyone else out there agree that if you get here early enough to get a good parking spot, you should be entitled to one? Well obviously the security people have other ideas. No longer is punctuality a good thing, but now you must park within metres of the entrance/exit at the command of Norm the security guard. Meanwhile the pit is virtually empty closer to the footpath.

My advice is to take the steps that many brave students have already taken. If the bar won't go up, then stick your arm out of your car and raise it yourself. If you drive a truck, then do the rest of us a favour and drive right through it! And when Norm the security guard tries to steer you into that shitty parking spot, pretend like you were fast-forwarding your tape and didn't see him! And P.S, get the hell out of the bushes Norm, we all know what you're really doing!

by: L. Ponte

Imagine that you are Alice, stepping through the looking glass. Suddenly everything is reversed. Doorknobs are on the wrong side of doors. The gearshift in your car is in the wrong place. The handles on can openers are on the wrong side and they turn the wrong way.

Two and a half million Canadians wake up every day in just such a predicament. They are the one in ten of us who are left-handed and must face the built-in bias of a world designed for the right-handed majority. In a society of rights (from Anglo-Saxon riht, for "direct, upright, correct") and righteousness, the south-paw is left (Anglo-Saxon llyft for "Weak") with leftovers and left-handed compliments.

Why we are left or right handed remains one of the great unsolved mysteries of science. We know that 55 to 60 % of lefties are male, and that left-handedness tends to run in families. The Scotch-Irish family Kerr (from the Gaelic word for "left") produced so many left-handers that in 1470 the family built its castle's spiral stairways with a reverse twist to favour southpaw swordsmen.

Although lefties make up only ten percent of the population they account for between 14 and 18 percent of those treated for alcoholism, according to Dr. Wayne P. London of Dartmouth Medical School. they can be more sensitive to a variety of other drugs too.

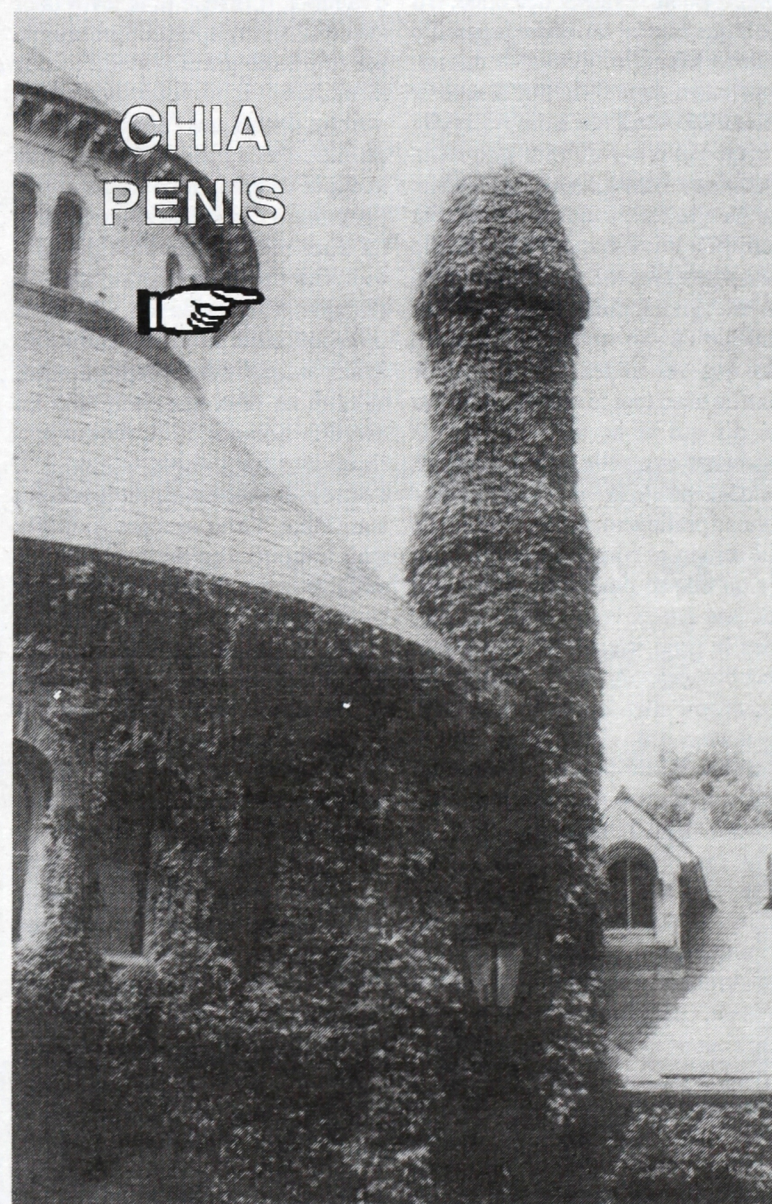

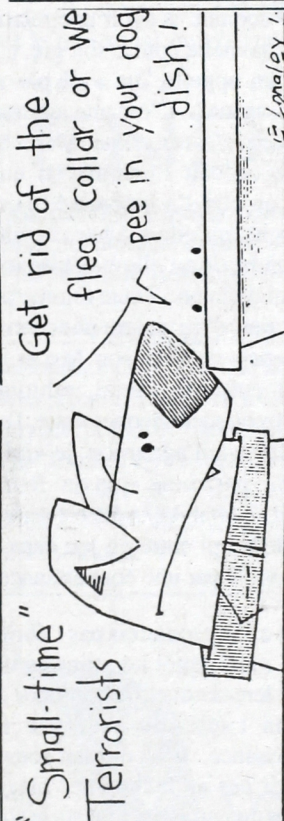

Sports fans can see an edge on the playing field as well. Almost one quarter of history's greatest pitchers have been lefties, and nearly half the batters in baseball's Hall of Fame are left-handers or switch-hitters.

You may not be as right-handed or as left-handed as you think. To find out, take a large piece of paper, turned sideways, and pick up a pencil in each hand. With your right hand, slowly sign your name, and with your left hand match each movement in reverse, with both hands moving in opposite directions away from the paper's centre. After a few tries, hold your left-handed reverse signature up to a mirror. You'll be surprised how much it resembles your forward right-handed writing.

There are dangers lefties encounter. In a recent study, it was found left-handers were 89% more likely to have suffered a serious accident-related injury over a two-year period. It's not that lefties are clumsy, but that they must constantly struggle to adapt to a right-handed world, whether at home, at work or on the road. For example, most circular saws are designed with the handle of the blade on the right. Many left-handers have sliced off vital digits while using the saw.

Take heart lefties for as Dean Campell, the founder of Left-handers International says, "If the right side of the body is controlled by the left side of the brain, and vice versa, then we left-handed people are the only ones in our right mind."

Pris de Stratégies Étudiantes, vol.2, numéro 1, automne 1993

Tu décides d'aller au bar du campus et aperçois en entrant un groupe de femmes assises à une table. Parmi le groupe, tu reconnais une femme qui t'intéresse et avec laquelle tu as déjà parlé à quelques reprises. Tu es presque convaincu que tu ne lui es pas indifférent. Tu t'approches et t'assoies près d'elle. Tu te rends compte qu'elle te porte de l'attention et qu'elle essaie de "flirter" avec toi. La plupart des gens ont ingurgité quelques bières et l'atmosphère est assez détendue. Tu crois que tu peux lui rendre la pareille et flirter avec elle. Vous allez danser, mais elle a de la difficulté à se tenir debout tellement elle a bu. Alors elle s'accroche à toi et veut que tu la soutiennes. Maintenant, plus de doute dans ta tête, elle s'intéresse vraiment à toi. Tu lui demandes donc si elle veut partir avec toi. Elle rit et répond qu'elle devrait plutôt rester avec ses amies. Tu sais qu'elle ne voudrait pas que ses amies croient qu'elle couche avec tout le monde. Alors tu lui dis qui tu ne veux qu'aller te promener avec elle et l'entraînes à l'extérieur. Elle dit qu'elle ne te connaît pratiquement pas. Elle ajoute que ses amies vont s'inquiéter. Tu te dis qu'elle se préoccupe trop de ce que ses amies vont penser et que, dans le fond, c'est avec toi qu'elle veut être en ce moment. Alors tu la convaincs d'aller chez toi pour prendre un autre verre. Vous allez dans ta chambre. Elle devient maintenant plus empressée à rejoindre ses amies au bar. Tu lui dis de ne pas s'en faire parce que tu la trouves de ton goût et tu sens qu'elle aussi te trouve de son goût. C'est d'ailleurs ce qu'elle commence à te dire lorsque tu l'interromps en l'embrassant passionnément. Bientôt tu te rends compte que vous vous êtes allongé-e-s sur le lit. Elle résiste et te dit qu'elle ne se sent pas à l'aise. Tu lui dis de se dé-tendre. Tu commences à lui faire l'amour et une fois que tu te retrouves sur elle, elle ne prononce plus un mot. Après que ce soit fini, elle se lève aussitôt et part. Lorsque tu lui offres de la raccompagner chez elle, elle descend les escaliers en courant et te crie de ne plus jamais la rappeler.

La semaine de cours a été longue, puis y a eu le démenagement de nouvelles rencontres. Tu décides d'aller prendre un verre avec quelques-une de tes coloc. Vous vous rendez au bar de campus et vous vous assoyez à une table où vous pouvez voir les gens entrer. Une demi-heure plus tard, ce gars que tu trouves de ton goût vient vers toi et s'assoit à ta table. Il te parle et tu te rends compte qu'il est vraiment intéressant et qu'il a beaucoup d'humour. Lorsque tu te lèves pour aller danser, tu t'aperçois que tu as un peu trop bu et que tu as même un peu la nausée. Il te conseille d'aller marcher dehors, que l'air frais te ferait du bien. Tu ris pour lui laisser croire que tout va bien. Il rit lui aussi et il t'entraîne à l'extérieur malgré que tu lui dises que tes amies vont s'inquiéter. On t'a répété durant toute la semaine d'initiation de ne pas te promener toute seule et de laisser tes amies au courant de tes déplacements, alors tu ne veux pas partir sans les avertir. Lorsque tu te retrouves à l'extérieur, tu te sens mieux et il t'offre d'aller chez lui pour boire une autre bière. Tu ne veux pas vraiment, mais tu trouves qu'il est un gars formidable et tu te dis que tout ira bien. Une fois chez lui, il veut te montrer sa chambre. Tu lui réponds que tu es d'accord, mais que tu aimerais vraiment retourner au bar avant que tes amies ne partent. Il te répond que tu es trop préoccupée par ce que pensent tes amies. Il te dit qu'il te trouve très séduisante. Tu veux lui répondre qu'il l'est lui aussi mais qu'il va un peu trop vite. C'est alors qu'il te coupe la parole en te forçant à l'embrasser. Il te pousse sur le lit et commence à te déshabiller. Tu te rends compte que ça ne va pas du tout. Tu essaies de lui dire non, mais il n'arrête pas de t'embrasser. Il monte ensuite sur toi. Il est très lourd et il ne veut pas s'arrêter. Tu as vraiment très peur et tu sens que si tu oses dire quelque chose, il pourrait te faire du mal. Lorsqu'il a fini, tu ramasses tes vêtements et quitte son appartement. Il te crie en sortant qu'il veut te raccompagner chez toi mais tu as terriblement peur de lui. Tu te rends compte qu'en fait, il vient de te violer.

Ces scénarios sont-ils réalistes? Les viols ne sont-ils pas commis par des étrangers dans des quartiers malfamés de la ville? Si elle l'aimait bien et l'a embrassé, ne lui laissait-elle pas entendre qu'elle voulait coucher avec lui? Si elle n'a pas dit non et n'a pas cherché à se défendre, peut-on parler de viol?

Obliger une femme que l'on connaît à avoir une relation sexuelle contre son gré, c'est ce qu'on appelle "un viol par une connaissance". C'est une agression sexuelle et c'est un crime. Même si la femme connaît l'homme en question, qu'elle l'a embrassé, cajolé, minouché, qu'elle n'a pas cherché à se défendre ou qu'elle était trop soûle pour lui dire non, le viol peut être victime d'un viol par une connaissance, peu importe son âge et son milieu culturel, racial, ethnique, religieux ou socio-économique. Dans 84% des cas d'agression, le violeur est une personne que la femme connaît. L'état d'ébriété est souvent un facteur qui entre en jeu dans les cas de viols par une connaissance.

Ce n'est toutefois pas l'ébriété, mais plutôt les attitudes violentes envers les femmes que sont la cause du viol par une connaissance. L'alcool fait souvent ressortir ces attitudes: des blagues sexistes ou commentaires sur le corps de la femme, du harcèlement sexuel à l'agression sexuelle et même au meurtre. Le viol par une connaissance est une forme d'agression sexuelle qui s'inscrit dans cette violence perpétuelle faite aux femmes et dans une société qui dégrade les femmes et les traite comme des objets de plaisir sexuel.

Partout on retrouve cette violence: on a recours à des femmes en bikini pour vendre des autos; on apprend aux petites filles à être polies et à ne pas dire ce qu'elles pensent: on ne tient pas compte de la contribution des femmes dans les établissements scolaires: on appelle les hommes que flirtent dans des soirées; des "tombeurs", et les femmes qui font la même chose sont traitées de "putes", et on a un système judiciaire qui permet de blâmer autant la femme qui a été violée que le violeur.

Cette image peut sembler plutôt sombre, mais c'est la réalité. Il existe des moyens pour mettre fin à la violence faite aux femmes et pour faire cesser le viol par une connaissance pour toujours. Les hommes doivent comprendre qu'il ne sera jamais acceptable de forcer ou contraindre quelqu'une à avoir une relation sexuelle. Les hommes doivent prendre conscience que lorsque les femmes disent non, cela ne signifie pas qu'elles rejettent les hommes mais plutôt qu'elles n'ont pas envie d'avoir des relations sexuelles à ce moment-là. Il faut entendre le NON— peut importe comment il est exprimé. Les femmes, quant à elles, doivent apprendre à respecter leurs sentiments et à écouter leur intuition. Elles ont toujours le droit de mettre des limites et de dire non peu importe le moment.

Nombre de vos campus participeront à la campagne de la Fédération canadienne des étudiantes et étudiants (Services) "Non c'est non" dès cet automne. Prenez connaissance du contenu du matériel, participez aux diverses activités contre le viol par une connaissance qui auront lieu dans votre campus et discutez avec vos ami-e-s de la question des agressions sexuelles dans votre établissement. L'atmosphère qui règne lors de la semaine d'initiation est propice à faire de nouvelles connaissances et, souvent à faire la "fête" avec elles. On n'a toutefois pas à se laisser croire qu'un groupe de personnes qui nous étaient étrangères auparavant sont devenues soudainement de bons ami-e- en qui ont peut avoir entièrement confiance. Le viol par une connaissance survient tant chez les étudiant-e-s de niveau collégial qu'universitaire et ce n'est qu'une fois que nous commencerons à y penser, à en parler ouvertement et à changer nos attitudes et nos comportements, que nous commencerons à mettre fin au viol par une connaissance dans nos campus. Nous avons toutes et tous le pouvoir de mettre fin à la violence faite aux femmes.

La contrainte québécoise

rédacteur-français

Pendant ces deux dernières années, depuis la création du Bloc Québécois, le Canada est dans une lutte de pouvoir contre le Québec. La volonté québécoise de se séparer est revenue en force! Le Canada est dans une situation précaire car nous ne voulons pas que le Québec se sépare, par contre on ne peut pas les empêcher.

- Il y a plusieurs canadiens qui disent qu'ils/elles ne veulent pas que le Québec se sépare. Pourquoi? Il y a plusieurs raisons valables:
1. Le Québec ne pourrait pas survivre.
  2. Le Canada n'existerait plus car les Maritimes et l'Ouest pourraient peut-être vouloir se séparer aussi.
  3. Les Amérindiens revendiqueraient leurs droits d'une façon acharnée.
  4. Les autres états ne respecteraient plus le Canada comme nation.
  5. Nous pourrions avoir une guerre civile comme dans les pays européens.

Ce ne sont que quelques raisons qui m'ont été données en parlant à des étudiants et étudiantes. Le peuple canadien semble s'inquiéter plus au sujet de leur bien-être que celui du Canada entier. Il ya même un étudiant qui m'a dit que l'on devrait envoyer le militaire contre le Québec, qu'il devrait y avoir une dictature militaire (un autre Oka peut-être?). De plus, il a dit que "Tout les partisans du Bloc Québécois sont des traites car ils veulent détruire le Canada".

Personnellement, je crois que le Québec ne devrait pas se séparer. J'aimerais que cette province devienne membre officielle du Canada. Sauf pour le Québec, je ne peux pas forcer le Québec de s'allier en signant la Constitution. L'on ne peut pas forcer quelqu'un à faire ce qu'il/elle ne veut pas faire. Cela va contre le droit de la liberté. Le Québec a le droit de séparer s'il le veut. Sinon, l'on va contre l'un de nos droits les plus fondamentaux.

La contrainte n'a jamais fonctionné, l'histoire nous l'a déjà démontré! Par exemple, le démantèlement de l'Union-Soviétique et la guerre en Yougoslavie.

Mais, il faut aussi que je dise que la séparation du Québec créera des problèmes politiques, économiques et sociales. Le Canada sera divisé à un tel point qu'il se pourrait qu'il se déchire complètement.

Cependant, je suis très intéressé de savoir ce qui va se passer dans les prochains mois! Les politiques et les emmerdes ne seront pas terminées après les élections. Alors préparez-vous pour une nouvelle lutte politique! Une lutte qui n'aura aucun gagnant!!

Les bourses suivantes sont encore disponibles. Les étudiants(es) à plein temps peuvent obtenir des formulaires de demande au Bureau de l'aide financière, salle L-222, Édifice R.D. Parker. La date limite est le 26 novembre 1993.

La candidate doit avoir obtenu de bonnes notes et avoir besoin d'aide financière. Il faut présenter une demande.

Un nouveau service pour la population

Depuis plus d'un mois, un petit monsieur avec des lunettes rôde autour du campus, rencontre des gens et pose toutes sortes de questions. Qui est ce bonhomme et que fait-il? Voici le "scoop".

Au début de septembre, l'Université Laurentienne est devenue la plus récente d'un groupe d'environ 24 établissements post-secondaires canadiens à se doter d'un ombudsman ou protecteur universitaire. Y-a-t-il un lien entre cet événement et notre monsieur fouineur? C'est quoi au juste un ombudsman?

Ombudsman est un mot suédois tiré de Riksdagens Justitieombudsman qui signifie (plus ou moins) "représentant du peuple" ou "agent pour la justice". On appelle ombudsman tout agent indépendant qui reçoit des plaintes au sujet de décisions administratives, examine les faits et dépose un rapport sur ses conclusions, dans le but d'occasionner un règlement acceptable. Plus de cent pays et organismes gouvernementaux à travers le monde ont adopté ce concept développé en Suède au début du 19<sup>e</sup> siècle. Quantité de sociétés et d'organisations non gouvernementales telles que des banques, des hôpitaux, des sociétés de radio et de télédiffusion, des journaux et, oui, même des universités, ont aussi emprunté le modèle de l'ombudsman comme mécanisme de feed-back afin de régler les plaintes plus efficacement et d'améliorer leur service.

La portée du mandat de ces ombudsmans ou protecteurs universitaires varie d'une institution post-secondaire à une autre, même si les objectifs fondamentaux se ressemblent. À certaines universités, par exemple, l'ombudsman peut être saisi de plaintes provenant de tout membre de la communauté universitaire, soit des étudiants et étudiantes, du personnel de soutien et du corps professoral.

Ici à la Laurentienne, ce nouvel service est le résultat d'un partenariat entre l'AEF, l'AGE et l'Université. Le protocole d'entente stipule que chaque partie contribue sa quote-part du financement (ce qui sauvegarde l'indépendance du bureau) et délimite le mandat ainsi que les fonctions.

Le rôle du Bureau du protecteur universitaire ("Office of the University Ombudsperson" en anglais) consiste à recevoir les plaintes des étudiants relatives aux décisions, actions ou politiques reliées aux cours ou aux services universitaires. Selon la question en litige, le protecteur universitaire peut fournir des renseignements sur les procédures d'appel déjà en place, faire des enquêtes officieuses ou mener des enquêtes plus formelles au besoin. À partir d'une évaluation objective des faits dans chaque cas, il faut formuler des recommandations afin d'aider à régler la question.

Il est important de souligner que le protecteur universitaire ne se fait ni le défenseur de l'administration universitaire, ni automatiquement l'avocat de la population étudiante.

Les pouvoirs considérables d'enquête et de recommandations constituent un dernier recours et ne se substituent pas aux mécanismes d'appel établis. Par conséquent, le protecteur universitaire ne peut intervenir comme un héros de bande dessinée et obliger un organisme à modifier ses décisions ou politiques. Son travail dépend de l'ouverture de l'établissement à la critique constructive et de l'engagement de celui-ci à améliorer le processus décisionnel. Il va sans dire que cette méthode de résolution des conflits peut seulement fonctionner dans un climat de crédibilité et de respect mutuel.

Évidemment, la meilleure façon d'éviter des malentendus est de bien connaître les règlements et d'agir en conséquence. Étudiez votre annuaire universitaire, les renseignements sur les programmes, les plans de cours, le code de conduite des étudiants ainsi que toute autre mesure ou politique qui vous touche.

de recourir aux appels formels. Les accès de colère et les remontrances démesurées ne sont guère efficaces. Il est important de connaître ses droits, de garder son sang-froid et même d'être tenace. Mais il est aussi possible de communiquer son désaccord tout en traitant les autres comme on voudrait être traité.

Alors qui est le protecteur universitaire de la Laurentienne? Le nouveau protecteur universitaire se nomme Claude Roy. Jusqu'à tout récemment, il était l'agent régional de Sudbury pour l'Ombudsman Ontario, après avoir été pendant plusieurs années adjoint de circonscription d'un député fédéral. Il est aussi un ancien de l'École des sciences de l'éducation de la Laurentienne.

Claude continue à rencontrer les administrateurs universitaires, à faire la collecte d'information sur les politiques et les règlements, à organiser le bureau et à recevoir les plaintes et les demandes de renseignements.

Avez-vous des ennuis avec l'Université? Savez-vous où aller pour tenter de régler votre problème (ou que faire par la suite)? Parlez-en à Claude; le service est confidentiel et on sera peut-être en mesure de vous aider. Vous pouvez communiquer avec Claude au poste 1083 ou passer le voir au bureau 924 de l'édifice Parker. Les heures de bureau sont de 9h à 12h et de 13h à 16h30.

Lorsqu'on se sent lésé par une politique ou par une décision, ou l'objet d'un traitement inéquitable ou injuste, il y a des moyens de recours et une façon systématique de procéder. Une discussion raisonnée, une demande écrite bien formulée ou une lettre explicitant son problème produisent souvent le résultat escompté sans qu'il soit nécessaire

L'AEF SE DÉFEND!

La semaine passée, l'AEF s'est faite accuser par un membre anonyme - Jenème Pasça - d'avoir organisé des activités anglophones. En plus de ces accusations, Jenème Pasça a lancé une attaque personnelle contre Pete Vere le publiciste de l'AEF.

présenter pour le poste de publiciste était seulement naturel. "

Comme publiciste, Pete fait des affiches pour l'AEF et travaille directement avec Sylvie Demoré, animatrice socio-culturelle. Sylvie trouve que l'attaque des activités anglophones est fautive et que l'attaque contre n'est pas les activités ouvertes au public. C'est un manque d'intérêt de la part des francophones.

S.V.P Laissez l'AEF en paix. Laissez-les faire leur travail. Et si vous êtes insatisfait avec leurs activités, présentez-vous en personne pour discuter de vos problèmes.

Rien ne s'accomplit en lançant des insultes personnelles et sans solutions.

Pete est injuste. "

C'est un effort de sa part de devenir francophone: pour devenir francophone ça prend beaucoup de pratique, mais je n'ai jamais entendu Pete parler en anglais pendant les heures de bureau. Pete a quelques mots pour Jenème Pasça: "Premièrement, s'il n'aime pas un "anglophone" comme publiciste, il aurait dû se présenter pour le poste. À part de ça, je ne m'engagerai pas dans une bataille sans armes."

Cross Country Vees Eyeing CIAU's

The Laurentian men's cross-country team could be on the verge of qualifying for the CIAU championships. Normally only the first two teams at the OUAA championship qualify to compete at the CI's, however there are two wild card entries for the country. Due to the strength of the OUAA field, one or both of the wild cards could be given to teams from Ontario. U of T and UWO are the perennial powerhouses and are pretty much untouchable for first and second. Windsor, Guelph, Waterloo, Queens and Laurentian all have great teams and should be right in the fight for the much coveted wild card positions.

This year's team was quite large and competitive, however, only seven people could make it to represent Laurentian at the OUAA's. These seven people have worked hard for the past few months and in some cases, years. This article will highlight some of their athletic highlights.

Mark Dewan has been the team leader at every race this year. Dewan has worked hard for the last and the silver medalist in the 5000 metres. He was 10th at the 1993 track Nationals in the steeplechase.

Mark Proulx usually ends up very close to Dewan. Last year he was 14th at the OUAA's. He was a bronze medalist at the 1992 Ontario Summer Games. Last winter Proulx had an extremely successful indoor track season, winning the mile at the Hamilton Spectator Games and the two Laurentian teams. As well as being an important part of the cross-country teams, Rob is also a member of the swim team. Rob was the 1991 and 1992 champion for his age group at the Canadian triathlon championships.

Kevin Sullivan is the little engine that helps power the Laurentian team. After a years break from the team, Kevin is back and he's better than ever. Sully ran a 2:53 marathon while only 16 years old. He also has some jets, at one track meet Sully competed in the 3000 metres and the 60 metres placing very well in both.

Jason Leach pulled together a great race at Waterloo last weekend to ensure his place on this year's team. Jason is more known for his blazing speed on the track. This summer he ran 1:56 for 800 metres, almost 4 seconds faster than the summer before.

Ben Sidney is no stranger athletics in Sudbury. Ben went to high school at Sudbury's Lo-Ellen where he represented his school at OFSAA in cross-country skiing and in track and field. Ben has also been a member of the Canadian Junior National Orienteering team and has represented Canada internationally. Ben is the only rookie to make Laurentian's OUAA team this year.

If everyone runs up to their potential at the OUAA's the team will be on a plane for Dalhousie for the CIAU's on November 6th. The OUAA and OWIAA Championships will be held October 30 at the University of Waterloo.

3000 metres at the Can-Am meet in Windsor. He finished fourth at the track OUAA's in the 3000 metres.

Derek Reed has had an extremely strong season finishing close to Mark and Mark. Derek is known more for running half-marathons where he regularly produces extremely 1:09's. He also placed 3rd in the 10,000 metres at this year's Ontario team trials.

Rob Campbell is an asset to three years and has improved an incredible amount since his first year where he placed 56th at the OUAA championships. Last year he placed 6th at the OU's and was named an OUAA all-star. Among his other accomplishments are a recent first place finish at the Laurentian Invitational cross-country meet. Dewan also competes in track and field and was the 1992 Ontario Summer Games champion in the 3000 metre steeplechase

VEE LINE

Pizza Hut Athlete of the Week

For the week of October 18, right winger Duane Lewis has been named Laurentian University Pizza Hut Athlete of the Week. Duane scored 3 goals in Sunday's victory over RMC for his second hat trick of the season, including exhibition games. Duane now has six goals and one assist this season. Duane is a second year Sports Administration student and it is also his second year on the hockey team.

For the week of October 25, the Laurentian University Pizza Hut Athlete of the Week is Pawel Hoppe. Soccer Vees striker Pawel Hoppe scored an unheard of 4 goals in the soccer Vees one sided 7-0 victory over York on Saturday. A first year forward out of London, Pawel is taking Humanities and was once the top scorer in the Western Ontario Soccer League.

Basketball

On Friday Oct. 22, the Laurentian Lady Vees defeated Lakehead by a score of 61-44 while the men's team suffered a 78-69 loss. The top scorers for the Lady Vees were Dianne Norman and Tracy Hayman with 17 and 15 points. Chris Fisher scored 19 in a losing effort.

On Saturday, the Voyageur basketball squads completed their weekend series with Lakehead. The Lady Vees posted their second straight victory by erasing a one point half time deficit and cruising to a 55-36 win. Martha Sandilands led the Lady Vees with 20 points and was Laurentian's game MVP. In the men's action, the Voyageurs suffered a tough 95-84 loss with Chris Fisher netting 17 points.

The exhibition games occurred at Lakehead University. The Lady Vees next see action at the Albert Pandas Tournament this Friday, while the Vees go to the Brandon Tournament on Thursday, October 28.

Voyageurs Propel to Pool Victories

Over the weekend the Laurentian swimming team hosted and defeated Brock, Waterloo and Wilfred Laurier. Both of the men's and women's teams were victorious over each of their opponents on Friday night and on Saturday as well.

Carleton and Toronto Beware: Soccer Vees are Coming

Angelo Tsarouhas
Contributor

If last Saturday's demolition of York is any indication, the Laurentian Soccer Vees are ready for the playoffs. With many of their starters taking the afternoon off, the Vees still man-handled the Yeomen of York 7-0! Pawel Hoppe led the team with an astounding four goals for the afternoon.

The scoring barrage began in the fifth minute, with Hoppe heading in a gorgeous cross from veteran Nick Gagatsis. Tony Giorgi scored the only other first-half goal on a beautiful individual effort from just outside the 18 yard line.

The second half started right where the first half left ended. Ken Heinrich battled the fierce wind and managed to get a lovely corner cross to Darren Labrash for L.U.'s third goal of the day. The next two tally's come from ace Pawel Hoppe. At the 25 minute mark, Hoppe stole the ball from a hapless York goalie to score his second of the day. Just five minutes later Hoppe powered a free kick into the net past the keeper. Todd Sindrey kept the Laurentian thrashing going with a beautiful kick into the yawning cage, at the 35 minute mark. Hoppe finished off a career game by completing a nice cross from Sindrey at the 37th minute. John Kowal and John Leroux shared the shut-out for the Voyageurs.

You can bet the farm that neither Carleton nor Toronto are looking forward to meeting our Vees in the playoffs. For the first time this year the Voyageurs are healthy, and a healthy Vees squad is a scary Vees squad. It has been evident all year that this team has both the offense and defense to do some damage in the OUAA East. By the looks of things, the Voyageurs may be pulling things together at the right time. Our Soccer Vees are away this weekend for their first playoff game. If last Saturday's thrashing of York is any indication, this will merely be the first of many playoff appearances for the Voyageurs. Good Luck Guys!

ANDREW CASH

Acclaimed singer/songwriter Andrew Cash first made a musical splash with seminal Toronto punk outfit L'Etranger in the early '80s. Five years and three EPs later, Andrew went solo, soon signing with prestigious label Island. His Time And Place and Boomtown albums reflected his evolution as a songwriter, and he now greets us with his finest work yet, Hi (on Sumo Productions/MCA). "We wanted to capture the actual sound of the band," explains Andrew. The power of Cash and his new band can now be witnessed on their extensive tour with Spirit Of The West.

All The Rage

Erin Wilson
Contributor

Rainbows of colours. Shocking to the stiff necked, stiff pant legged, 'blindness on' conservative society, maybe. Berets with an edge. Guatemalan pants with a flare. Hand carved wooden masks calling us back to Dionysian festivals, players with ornamental faces. Hackisac balls to hack with toes no longer covered with hose. No, no - women are doing it too! Everyone is wearing 'Guatemalen'. Everyone is adorning their homes, or 8X4 student apartments with international wares. It's all the rage! But where are these treasures coming from? Guatemala! Indonesia! Sri Lanka! But there is more to their origin than that!

It is important to be aware of how these goods are arriving in Canada, who is purchasing them from their native countries, how are they being produced there and what sort of return are those who are producing them receiving, how many middle people are involved and who is receiving the true profit?

Often what occurs is that the buyers will go to under developed countries with only the smell of green money in their nose. they will 'successfully' haggle with the artisans and buy a large quantity of goods for a whopping low price. They take advantage of the indigenous population. It is a continuation of economic exploitation that has existed for years between rich and poor countries.

Some will say, "Regardless, a sale was made and the indigenous peoples will benefit more than if a sale had not been made" and sadly enough, this is true. But it is not a just business. It is not just to take advantage of another person's plight so that you might benefit.

This leads me to introduce an organization that will be on campus October 25-28, 1993, Village International Sudbury (VIS). VIS is a bilingual non-profit Global Education Centre that exists to promote awareness and action on global development issues. VIS also sells handcrafted gifts and fine foods produced by Third World artisans. VIS is part of an international movement of "Alternative Trading Organizations" working to bridge the economic gap between nations from the North and South through fair trade. Their main suppliers are Bridgehead, SelfHelp (Mennonite Central Committee), East Asia Company, M&K International, Mayan Hands, and UNICEF.

There are a number of guiding principles which VIS adheres to. Here are just a few of them:

1. WE PAY FAIR PRICES FOR OUR PRODUCTS
2. WE HELP THIRD WORLD PRODUCERS FIND MARKETS IN CANADA
3. WE SUPPORT JOB CREATION IN THE THIRD WORLD
4. WE BELIEVE FIRMLY THAT SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT IS POSSIBLE, IF PEOPLE ARE WILLING TO PAY ARTISANS A FAIR PRICE FOR THEIR WORK

To learn how they meet these goals come on out to the Bowling Alley the last week of October. Ask some questions! Do some smart shopping! Help stop the out RAGEous exploitation of Third World countries by educating yourself and providing a healthy Canadian market for some extraordinary products.

In conjunction with Canadian Crossroads International.

A question and answer period will follow the speeches. Students are welcome to attend.

The following scholarships have not yet been awarded for the 1993-94 academic year. Full time students meeting the eligibility criteria are asked to apply prior to November 26, 1993. Application forms are available in the Student Awards Office, L-222.

FIRST YEAR STUDENTS:

Alumni Status of Women Scholarship

Valued at $1,000, the scholarship is awarded to a female student in the first year of a Science or Engineering program. The major criteria are academic standing (minimum 80%) at the completion of an Ontario secondary school (6 OAC/OSSD) or its equivalent, and financial need. Application is required.

SECOND, THIRD, FOURTH YEAR STUDENTS:

The Wallace Family Scholarship

Valued at $500 and awarded to a student in year 2 of the School of Engineering or the School of Commerce and Administration. The scholarship will be awarded to the student having demonstrated the greatest improvement in academic standing from the completion of an Ontario secondary school (6 OAC/OSSD) or its equivalent to the average obtained at the end of year one at Laurentian University. This award includes a summer work term with Plonner Construction Inc. at the completion of year 2. Application is required.

The Molson Ontario Breweries Limited Bursary

Valued at $500 and awarded annually to a student in third or fourth year of the Honours Bachelor of Commerce in Sports Administration program. Selection shall be based on a combination of financial need and academic standing. Application is required.

The Helen Byrnes Memorial Award

A gift from the Canadian Federation of University Women (Sudbury) in memory of the late Helen Byrnes, an esteemed member of that club and a former Modern Languages teacher at Sudbury High School. Valued at $500, the award is presented annually to a female student in any year of the Bachelor of Physical and Health Education program on the basis of academic achievement and financial need. Application is required.
